

State Senator Who Withdraws From Race Against J. J. Russell

SENATOR CHARLES P. HAWKINS

HAWKINS QUILTS CONGRESS RACE

"Abe Lincoln" of Dunklin County Will Serve Out Term in Senate

EXPLAINS HIS ACTION

Says Pressure of Business Influenced Him—Three Democrats in Race

State Senator Charles P. Hawkins who had been considered a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress from the Fourteenth District, yesterday forwarded a statement to The Tribune, announcing that he would not make the race.

Senator Hawkins is desirous of serving out his term as State Senator, he stated, and for this reason, coupled with the fact that he does not care to sacrifice his law practice, he declined to make the race.

This announcement leaves only three Democrats contending for the prize. Joseph J. Russell, the present Congressman, has two opponents in the field, Al Hart and R. L. Ward.

Senator Hawkins, who is known as the "Abe Lincoln" of Dunklin County is one of the most popular Democrats in Southern Missouri. He has been in the Legislature for several terms, serving in both houses.

His letter, which he sent to The Tribune and which is addressed to the Democrats of this district, follows:

To the Democracy of the 14th Congressional District of Missouri:

Some weeks ago I paid the filing fee and my declaration of intention to become a candidate for Congress in this District.

Business matters have prevented me from making any campaign of the District except a short visit to such of the Counties in my Senatorial District that was in the Congressional District.

While I think this county being the largest Democratic County in the District, never having had a Democratic nominee, and but little recognition at the hands of the Party, is entitled to recognition at the hands of the Party yet, I don't see how it is possible for the following reasons for the writer to be a candidate at this time:

First—Because I have a law practice that demands all of my time and attention.

Second—Because I am personally interested in farming this year and have most of my means invested in farming and unless farming prospects improve very rapidly I can ill afford to invest any money in a campaign for Congress.

Third—Because the time is now so short to make a campaign of the counties in the district, that it would be unfair to myself and friends to not make a thorough campaign of the District.

Fourth—Because many of my friends that would be for me under

Magazine Men Held For Story Exposing Fortifications of Canal

Act Violated is One Forbidding Disclosure of U. S. Defense Secrets

San Francisco, Cal., July 10.—Warrants charging disclosure of army secrets were issued today against Charles K. Field, editor of the Sunset Magazine, and three contributors to the magazine, Scott E. Riely, author; Ray Duhem, photographer, and Robert Fowler, aviator. Field gave himself up this afternoon and was released on bond. The others have not been located.

The action taken by John W. Preston, U. S. District Attorney, was caused by publication in the April number of the magazine an article "Can the Panama Canal be Destroyed From the Air?" showing the canal, some of the fortifications and San Francisco Presidio.

The act said to have been violated is that forbidding the disclosure of United States defense secrets, which provides a penalty of ten years' imprisonment for such disclosures made abroad in the United States.

Frank Moranville who lives near 500 South Benton street, was arrested by Officer Hutson Friday morning. Moranville was charged with having beaten his wife. He was found guilty, and the penalty assessed against him including costs, amounted to $16.80. He was unable to make the payment, and was held in the city jail until late Friday afternoon, when Dennis Seivally and J. H. Langston, county highway officials, appeared and secured his release. Moranville is a teamster and has been employed in that capacity on the public highway work for some time.

ordinary circumstances committed themselves to some of the other distinguished gentlemen, who were known to be avowed candidates, and I find a large percent of the Democrats in this Senatorial District, think I should remain in the Senate until the expiration of my term.

For the reasons above mentioned, I shall not be a candidate for Congress at this time and have so instructed the Secretary of State by this mail.

The Party can command me in the District or out of it at its pleasure after the August Primary, without price for all of our Party nominees.

Yours for Party success,
C. P. HAWKINS.

M.K. & T. TRAIN IS HELD UP AND SAFE IS CRACKED

Bandits Halt Fast Train Near St. Louis and Escape With Loot

FORCE ENGINEER TO HAUL THEM AWAY

Dynamite Safe and Raid Mail Car While Trainman is Held at Bay

By telegraph to The Tribune.

St. Louis, July 9.—Bandits held up a Missouri Kansas and Texas west-bound passenger train, known as the Katy Flyer at Matson, Mo., twenty miles west of St. Charles late tonight.

The bandits dynamited the safe in the express car and are believed to have landed a large sum of money.

The police of St. Charles were notified and they in turn communicated with Allender, chief of Detectives in St. Louis.

The outlaws compelled the engineer to uncouple the mail and baggage cars from the passenger coaches and pull them down the tracks for a distance of several miles. One of them held him at bay while two confederates entered the baggage cars and dynamited the safe.

They also took a number of registered letters which are supposed to contain money. They ordered the engineer to keep off the engine until they were safely away. As soon as they disappeared in the woods, he boarded the locomotive and sped back to where the coaches were standing.

The robbery was carried out so systematically that the passengers hardly knew what was going on.

As soon as the holdup was reported, a pack of bloodhounds from Marthasville were sent for. They will reach the scene of the robbery at an early hour in the morning, and will immediately be started on the bandits trail.

NEW FLOUR MILL FINISHED.

Bread Made from "The Marvel" Like Mother Used to Bake.

One of the niftiest little flour mills in Southeast Missouri is "The Marvel," located at 10 South Frederick street, and owned by Lee L. Albert.

The mill which was just finished a few days ago, has a capacity of twenty-five barrels of flour a day. Its product is called "the Marvel flour" and bread baked from it, according to those who have tried it, is superior to the kind "mother used to bake."

Mr. Albert said yesterday that "the marvel" is the best flour made in this section of the state. While the mill is rather small, it is just as complete as they make them. Every piece of machinery in it was made especially for Mr. Albert, and he says the results he is getting even surpasses expectations.

GUN TOTER IS ARRESTED.

Patrolman Pinches Iowan When Artillery is Exposed.

Patrolman Beeve while making his rounds along Main street yesterday morning was attracted by a suspicious looking bulge which was plainly visible in the hip pocket of a late pedestrian.

A closer investigation developed the fact that the enlargement was due to a vicious looking automatic gun that the stranger was carrying.

When subjected to a line of questioning, the gun toter stated that he was a Scientific Collector for the University of Iowa, and that he had been given authority to carry concealed weapons throughout the United States and Canada by the Mayor of some town in Iowa.

He was taken into custody, however, and conducted to the police station. Chief Nichols was away at the time, and the policeman with his prisoner sought Mayor Kage.

After the Mayor had submitted some question and the stranger had produced satisfactory evidence as to the nature of his employment, he was permitted to go, under his solemn promise that he would put his gun in his grip and that in the future would not carry it concealed about his person.

HARRIS TELLS OF BEING BUNCOED

Merchant Loses $22 Through Forged Draft Which Bank Thought Good

WILL SEEK REVENGE

Says He Will Spend Double the Amount He Lost to Catch Thief

Dave Harris, proprietor of the American Clothing Co., was victimized last Wednesday afternoon by a shrewd swindler, who, under the pretext of purchasing some wearing apparel and other articles, succeeded in passing a forged bank draft upon the unsuspecting merchant, securing in change a sum of money amounting to about $22.00.

Mr. Harris stated to a representative of The Tribune that the stranger appeared at his place of business and asked to be shown a suit of clothes. After trying on a number of garments placed before him for his inspection, the alleged crook finally made a selection, and before finishing his purchases, bought two shirts, a leather grip and other furnishing goods amounting to $28.40.

Before offering to pay for the goods, the stranger informed Mr. Harris that he was traveling and did not carry any considerable amount of money on his person, deeming it safer to carry bank drafts.

When advised as to the amount due for the goods purchased, a bank draft purporting to have been issued from the Shawnee National Bank of Oklahoma to the National Bank of Commerce of Kansas City for $50, was presented for Mr. Harris' approval.

Mr. Harris stated that before accepting the draft he took it to a nearby bank, where one of the employees, after making an examination of the paper expressed himself as satisfied as to its genuineness. The draft bore the date of July 2, 1914, and the words, "not more than $50" were perforated on its face.

After taking this precaution, Mr. Harris states that he felt secure in accepting the draft, and returning to his place of business, he gave the waiting stranger the change due him. Before leaving the store the swindler asked permission to allow his purchases to remain until he called for them later in the day.

He was never seen again by Mr. Harris, and the incident had been dismissed from his mind, until yesterday advice was received through the bank that the draft was a forgery.

The draft was made payable to J. McDowles, and to satisfy any doubt that might exist as to his identity, the customer showed the same name as a laundry mark stamped on the shirt and underclothes he was wearing at the time, and even his hat bore the same name stamped on the sweat band. He also wore a ring with his name engraved on the inside of it.

He claimed to have come from Little Rock to this city, and stated that he was a moving picture man.

He was described by Mr. Harris as being about 34 years of age, light complexioned, sandy, curly hair, and about five feet ten inches high. He had a number of gold teeth in front, and his face was rather pinched and slender. He was a neat dresser, and was convincing and quiet in his manner.

Mr. Harris is determined not to let the matter drop until the criminal is safely in the hands of the authorities and he stated that he would spend double the amount of which he was robbed in order to accomplish his purpose.

QUEEN IS HIT ON HEAD.

Militants Also Blow Up Famous Chapel in Scotland.

By telegraph to The Tribune.

Edinburgh, July 13.—Militant suffragists exploded a bomb today in the famous Rosslyn Chapel seven miles from here, almost totally wrecking the structure.

Olive Walker, a Dundee suffragette, broke through the spectators and police yesterday while King George and Queen Mary were driving to St. Giles' Cathedral and hurled a rubber ball to which was attached a label inscribed "Stop Forcible Feeding" at the royal carriage.

The ball landed on the cap of the Queen who laughingly brushed it aside. The woman was removed from a threatening crowd and later released.

IRELAND READY FOR CIVIL WAR

Carson Arrives From London and Makes Speech Urging Revolution

MET BY ARMED GUARD

Uniformed Men With Bayonets Fixed Hear Leader Urge Ulster to Prepare

By telegraph to The Tribune.

Belfast, Ireland, July 10.—Civil war appears nearer today than at any time since Ulster threw down the gauntlet.

Sir Edward Carson was welcomed with cheers on his arrival here. A uniformed guard four hundred strong, armed with rifles and bayonets fixed, rendered military honors.

The leader brought no message of peace from London. Instead, he made a defiant and uncompromising speech at the first meeting of the Ulster Provisional Government Officials.

The meeting was held in secret, but those present declared that Carson's speech was the bugle call summoning Ulster to arms.

Everybody here believes that it will be a miracle if the twelfth of July celebrations pass without collision between the Unionist and Nationalist forces somewhere in the province.

Londonderry is the chief danger point. At today's meeting resolutions were passed giving Ulster's Cabinet power to take action on their own responsibility when it is deemed necessary in order to hold against home rule government.

At the same time covenants announced their willingness and the willingness of Ulster as a province, to negotiate for a peaceful settlement of the difficulty in deference to King George, provided Ulster's rights be safeguarded. But they declared they have no faith in the honor of the British government.

MADE INSANE BY HEAT.

Will Adams was incarcerated in the city jail yesterday morning, on the charge of being mentally deranged. Adams is a comparative stranger in this section of the country, and for the past few days has been employed as a laborer on the County Highway improvement work a few miles West of the city.

He was working under Dennis Seivally and James Langston, and on the morning of his detention his actions were such as to cause them to fear that he was losing his mind.

After hitching up his team, he attempted to drive in a direction opposite to where he was accustomed to work. When questioned he spoke incoherently and in many ways showed symptoms of insanity.

When taken before the authorities he appeared to be perfectly rational, and all through the day he seemed to be possessed of normal mentality. It was concluded that he had perhaps been temporarily deranged from excessive heat, but that detention was no longer necessary. His boarding boss, James Mithers, came in late in the afternoon and Adams accompanied him back to the camp.

Boy Thought Drowned Snoozes In Barn While Police Seek Him

Harry Ollie Slept in Rear of Home While His Mother Scoured City—Gobbles Biscuits.

Harry Ollie, the seven-year-old boy who was believed to have been drowned Thursday, was as dry as cotton, and while the police searched high and low for him, he slept soundly in a wagon in a barn just back of the house where he and his mother boards.

While the majority of residents of Cape Girardeau were looking for a cool place Thursday night, Harry Ollie was being caressed by a zephyr which fanned him from the South as it swept Northward through the open stable.

Harry was in the hay early Thursday night. The wagon, which belongs to Russell Jaden, was half filled with timothy, and the odor of new-mown hay was an inducement for Harry to forsake his mattress-laden cot.

ANOTHER WOMAN IN BAILEY CASE

District Attorney Postpones Quizz When Sleuths Say Two Slew Woman

By telegraph to The Tribune.

Freeport, N. Y., July 10.—The whole aspect of the astounding mystery in which the murder of Mrs. Lulu Bailey is still cloaked, was changed today when it was discovered that the detectives working under District Attorney Smith had caused the examination of Mrs. Florence Carman before Justice Norton to be postponed from next Monday until July 21.

This action was taken because of new and startling theory advanced by the detectives. The new theory on which the State depends to bring Mrs. Carman to trial involves another woman.

The detectives are not telling the name of the second woman, but they have come to the conclusion that if Mrs. Carman killed Mrs. Bailey, she did not shoot through the window. They contend that if she fired the fatal shot it was while standing in the door leading from the pantry into the office of her husband, Dr. Edward Carman, and that the window was broken by a woman who was Mrs. Carman's accomplice.

According to District Attorney Smith there will likely be some startling developments in this important case within the next few days.

CITY JAIL WILL SOON BE WITHOUT A BOARDER

Three Bootleggers Now Living at Chief Nichols' Bastille Soon To Go.

Unless some unexpected guests arrive, Chief Nichols will be without a regular boarder at the jail after next Wednesday.

The three young men who were convicted at the last term of the Federal Court in this city on the charge of bootlegging, will have served their terms Wednesday morning and they will be given their liberty.

The three of them are young men and were brought here from the neighborhood of Kennett. They have endured a long siege of confinement, having begun to serve their sentence on April 15th, after being held a month in this city before they were tried.

Before they were brought here, however, they were in the custody of the Dunklin County authorities and served nearly a year as county prisoners before Uncle Sam took hold of them.

Chief Nichols states that they are good boys and have never given him any serious trouble. He says that he had tried to make trustees of them but gave up the idea for the reason that they were somewhat inclined to truancy, and when they saw him leave the station they would go also, being careful however to return at about the same time that he did.

They are counting the hours to the time when the jail doors will be thrown open for them to walk out into freedom, and they are emphatic in their statements that they will never again be guilty of a violation of the law.

P. H. Boyce left Friday afternoon for Las Cruces, New Mexico, where he was called on account of the serious illness of his mother.
